MCMS Family,

With the end of the semester approaching in just 2 1/2 weeks, now is a good time to be sitting down with your child to look at grades together. There is great value to sharing this time together to discuss responsibility, accountability, and goals for the future. Whether it be academics, athletics and/or other hobbies, reviewing your child's progress and areas that they can work towards improvement is vital for their future success. We are always encouraging our students to take ownership of their work ethic while also guiding and lending a helping hand when needed. This support from home can also strengthen the partnership between home and school as we show our students that we are all on the same team, rooting for their success!

From Your 6th Grade Pathways Teachers:

Parents,

This first semester in Pathways class we have spent a lot of time discussing and discovering our personal strengths and interests, as well as our learning styles and goals we have for the future. Second semester we will begin to apply these insights toward our career research. We will be utilizing a program called Xello to research and gain insight into the careers students are both interested in, and careers they may not have considered before.

In addition to the career research we do online, we like to have guest speakers of various career fields speak to our classes. We would love to have people from right here in our community speak to us about just how they found their career. What were their interests, what you like about your job, and what you had to do to get there. In short- your Pathway. The ultimate goal is for students to learn about some of the great careers we have right here in our area.

These visits can be done in person at school, or via Zoom. If you are able to speak to our students about your career, we would only need you to Zoom or visit for one class and we would record your visit to share with other Pathways classes throughout the day. Your experience and insights would be invaluable to the students and we look forward to learning about your careers.

If you would like to share, please contact your student's Pathways teacher so we can set up a date and time.

Thank you!!!
